Possible Supporting Courses for the Undergraduate Certificate in Leadership Studies

The following list of courses represents potential classes that students may wish to consider in completing their supporting leadership course requirements. When a course is selected, students will need to orient class projects and assignments toward the study of leadership in that field. Some disciplines may not offer a particular leadership course; however, students may wish to consider a DIS to complete this part of the certificate program. Possible activities for DIS courses include: research into prominent historical and contemporary leaders in the specific field, study of ethics codes and similar standards for the professional area, shadowing experiences and interviews of current, accessible leaders in the field.
